CHERRY'S IN THE PINK

CHERRY WAINER, the "Itchy Twitchy" organist from ITV's musical explosion, "Oh Boy," bounced out of a man's shop in Shaftesbury-avenue with a pile of five-guinea sweaters and three boxes of expensive cuff-links.

"For my friends," she said. Then, spotting a couple of coppers standing by a NO PARKING sign:

How can I whisk my car away discreetly?"

I looked at the low-slung sports car and wondered how you could do anything discreetly with a passion pink body.

We bundled the parcels in and made our getaway like bank robbers. Destination: Tin Pan Alley.

The 300-yard journey took 10 minutes. We talked. About records and clothes and TV and the nice people Miss Wainer has met in Britain.

"I was born in South Africa, but came to England when I was thirteen. I went back for a few months. But now I'm here—for good.

"I couldn't stand the political set-up in Africa. Here, I work with people I like. And who cares what colour they are?

WRIGGLE

"Oh, 'Oh Boy!' we're all friends. And the programme gave me as much of the boys. There's how I like it. I wriggle about in front of the camera because I can make the music jump more that way.

She accelerated with a spell, and glanced for more copy. A good record nobody may like to play.

"That's Cliff Richard—over there. He's a nice kid. Not a rudhin' like lots of singers these days. He thinks about things. He's got quite a lot in his head. Over there that one. Willing to learn. Nothing more.

HANDLE

"Were a young singer Jack Good? 25 Mr. 23 Rita Gillespie. The girl who handles the camera team . . . she's great, isn't she?"

. . . I nodded. . . . She's 26."

Russell Turner, the producer of "Six-Five Special," tells me he'll be finished in Christmas. But we've got more than twice the smarts he gets."

"And no wonder," I added.

Cherry Wainer as you see her in ITV's "Oh Boy"

"Six-Five died weeks ago. Who wants to watch a corpse?"

A well-known publicity agent walked past. Cherry cursed. "He's a louse. Always shooting a line to girls under the pretext of publicity stunts. I hate men who string girls along like that."

I couldn't see anyone stringing Cherry along.

She pointed to a pile of books in the back seat. "Like to read, me said. "Other times, I play records. Get hundreds. Sinatra, Ella Duke rock 'n' roll. People say rock's no good. Some of it is. So good being a song.

"Got four record players. One in the bed. One in the lounge. One for when the others break down. One for when that breaks down."

She took a cigarette out of a handbag that looked like a meat-safe and lighter and spattered in the driving seat.

"I played Peggy Lee's 'Fever' night after night in bed before I sang it on 'Oh Boy.' Big thing on that was the eyes. I keep still and put all the actions in my eyes.

She took her hands off the steering wheel, held them across her nose like a washrag, stared at me with eyes like organ stops.

I noticed her black and tan hair was combed in over her ears like an old-fundle-the-face fringe. There was a wire-thin black ring on her little finger.

"Marie from elephants ha'e," she said. "Mustn't take it off. Tennish superstitions. Got two St. Christophers, and an ankle chain with my name on it."

SPRAYED

I was asking her why her car was pink and she was saying she had it sprayed to match her make-up tissues when we reached The Alley.

"Must go," I said. "Sweetie," she said, and fumbled among the parcels.

I was left holding a pair of gold cuff-links and realised that I hadn't even asked her about her record of "Itchy Twitchy Feeling" and "Cervega" (Spy Nuts)—which was the reason I'd called on her.

Maybe next time. If she keeps still long enough.

Pick of the Pops

- HUGH O'BRIAN better watch out for necktie parties if his vocal of Don't Expect Me (Brunswick) gets around. Side 2, Down In The Meadow, has soft, folksy appeal.
- LES PAUL and MARY FORD are back this time on Phillips with hearty guitar and cosy vocals. Title to watch: Put A Ring On My Finger.
- The delectable ROSEMARY SQUIRES is as ever pleasing on There Goes My Lover and that sensitive piece of time-setting, Forever Be Kind (HMV).
- DAVE KING steps both ears on Ring as he sings Crosby's old favourite, Home. Decca. What you might call a Buckmann's Holiday.
- That rock boy I heard at a West End night-spot, VINCE EAGER is on record at last, but Parlophone have dropped his best song, Jezebel, on the 'B' and substituted a rocker, Five Days, Five Days.
- A balladeer who was singing at the same plosive spot also has his first disc out on Parlophone. Name: DICK EVANS. Title: I Must Be Mine To Me. To Me In Your Arms. Prospects good.
